THE CARBONDALE NEWS, Wednesday, September 2, 1981, p. 4

30 years ago

When White's Crossing residents formed a taxpayers association to spearhead a fight for changes in the Northeast District of Carbondale Township and adopted a resolution urging Thomas Francis, county superintendent of schools, to rescind an order under which school districts of Carbondale Township and Mayfield were merged for the consolidation of high school affairs in both districts, the Whites people asking that their high school pupils be permitted to attend high schools in Fell and Carbondale City as they had the past?

Alice Voyle Rashleigh observed her 81st birthday in the home in which she was born at 36 River St., August 29, 1870, and the NEWS told that she was graduated from Carbondale High School in 1888 and began teaching in the old No. 1 School, located where the Roosevelt now stands, and ended her teaching career 52 years later as principal of the Marshall School on Belmont St.?
